Get the vote out on Super Saturday

Round 2

Following on from the great success of our first Super Saturday mass phonebank, PCS activists across the country are taking part in round 2 on Saturday (27 April).

More than 100 volunteers made over 10,000 calls on our first Super Saturday campaign – but we're aiming to reach every single member we haven't yet spoken to over the next two weeks. That's where you come in.

Volunteer for the CallHub

At this critical stage of the campaign, it's important to speak to every single member about voting in the national ballot. You have a role to play in making sure that we send a clear message to your employer and maximising turnout.

You can get involved by volunteering on Super Saturday and signing up to CallHub. All you need is a mobile phone, and you won't incur any costs. Read the guide on how to get set up.

PCS staff will be opening our regional and national offices for activists who want to get together with fellow members and make some calls. Snacks and refreshments will be available for those coming into their local office. You can find details of your local phone bank, including how to sign up, by clicking on the drop-down list.
