

Start date

27 July 2024 - 12:30

End date

27 July 2024 - 17:30

Location

London

Who's it for

Trans people and allies

The event is a celebration of trans and non-binary people and their allies.

Event Address

Trade union bloc meeting point: 12:30pm at Duke of Kent Statue (14 Park Crescent, London, W1B 1QX), close to Regent's Park station, moving to the main assembly point at Langham Place (outside the BBC) after 1pm.

After setting off at 2pm, the march will continue up Cockspur Street on to Pall Mall. The procession will turn right at Waterloo Place before proceeding to Piccadilly Circus. It will then turn left and continue straight on to Wellington Arch.

The total distance of the march is 1.35 miles and organisers estimate it will take one to one-and-a-half hours to walk through central London, culminating at Hyde Park Corner's Wellington Arch.

Accessibility: full route and accessibility info on Instagram (@londontranspride).

Bring: signs, banners, and flags.

Please take whatever steps you need to take in order to keep yourself and your comrades safe, especially when travelling to assembly points.