PCS responds to Badenoch's "bad civil servants" comments

Union says it won't allow civil servants to be used as Tory leadership election fodder

A PCS spokesperson said: "Kemi Badenoch just can't let it lie, can she? When she was in power she was accused of bullying civil servants. Now she's out of power she's continuing her personal feud against them, many of whom are our members.

"This is a below the belt attack on hard-working civil servants who can't answer back. We won't stand for our members being used as vote fodder for the Tory Party leadership election.

"Maybe Badenoch should reflect on her words, the way she treats civil servants and why the Tories lost the General Election."
